Poblocki opens Omaha office

The Business Journal of Milwaukee

Poblocki Sign Company said Monday that it has opened a new location in Omaha, Neb., the West Allis firm's third office.

Poblocki said it will be offering its full services, which includes interior and exterior signage and poster cases, to customers in Omaha and surrounding areas.

"This expansion has been in our strategic plan for some time," said David Drury, Poblocki's president and chief executive officer. "We look forward to providing our services and being a viable member of the Omaha business community."

The company is leasing a 4,000-square-foot facility which will house a light manufacturing area and office space. The company has two project managers in the area and plan to hire a number of employees over the next 12 months.

Poblocki has been working on sign projects in the Omaha area since March 2007. One of Poblocki's largest area projects is taking place at Alegent Health.

West Allis-based Poblocki also has an office in Atlanta.
